HOME POLITICAL CRISIS.

COMING ELECTION FIGHT.

FOUR-CORNERED CONTEST PROBABLE.

LLOYD GEORGE'S FUTURE.

"I AM A FREE MAN BUT MY SWORD IS IN MY HAND."

LONDON, October 20.

With two exceptions not a word of regret at the disappearance of the Coalition was expressed by the papers to-day. The exceptions are the Daily Telegraph, which nevertheless admits the validity of the act whereby the Carlton Club meeting destroyed the Government, and the Daily Chronicle which believes that coalition governments are likely to be the country's lot in the future. The Chronicle devotes a special article for a panegyric on Mr. Lloyd George, "the kind of leader who wins good service."

The other papers rejoice at the Conservatives' welcoming the opportunity of restoring the nation to its former position as a model of constitutional propriety, developing the resource of the Empire and reducing expenditure.

Liberals are expressing satisfaction at the rupture "in the politically immoral combination" and the return to clean politics.

BAGER FOR THE FRAY.

Never has a political crisis in Britain come to a head with such startling rapidity as yesterday's. The end of the political epoch finds all parties eager for the fray. A short life is predicted for any government formed by Mr. Bonar Law whose health is regarded as unequal to the strain, but anticipations in some quarters state that he will find difficulty in forming a ministry in view of the fact that thirteen ministers have signed the Unionist manifesto, called yesterday. This is somewhat discounted by to-day's announcement that Lord Carson and Lord Derby have undertaken to co-operate with Mr. Bonar Law.

The election, when it comes, will find the Independent Liberals and Labourites no nearer co-operation than previously.

"VERITABLE CINEMA SHOW."

Sir Donald Maclean, speaking at Innerleithen, summed up the prospect as "a veritable cinema show of parties and groups within parties."

Sir Donald Maclean said there would be not merely 3-cornered but 4-cornered contests. It was quite possible the next majority in the House of Commons would represent a minority of the electors. He urged that a new government immediately pass a measure for proportional representation.

As regards the possible effect of the crisis on the Irish settlement, it is significant that Lord Salisbury, in a speech at Cirencester, said the Unionists must respect the treaty so long as the Irish Government properly used the powers it has thereunder.

SINEWS OF WAR.

It is noteworthy that Sir James Craig, speaking in the Ulster Parliament, welcomed the advent of Mr. Bonar Law as helpful to Ulster supporters.

The Independent Liberals are generally considered to be best equipped financially for a fight. Their war chest is estimated at £3,000,000, compared with the Unionists' £1,000,000, while the Labourites, though abounding in candidates, are impoverished by strikes and unemployment allowances.

Mr. Lloyd George to-day goes to Leeds in a kind of triumphal progress. It has been arranged for the train to halt at towns en route for him to address deputations from Liberal associations.

"I AM A FREE MAN."

Leaving the Guildhall, en route for Leeds, Mr. Lloyd George shook hands with the Prince of Wales who patted him affectionately on the shoulder and wished him good luck. There were scenes of great enthusiasm at St. Pancras at the departure of Mr. Lloyd George in a special train for Leeds, accompanied by Mrs. Lloyd George and a hundred Liberal members, candidates and friends.

Responding to the large crowd's demands for a speech, Mr. Lloyd George thanked the great assemblage for coming to cheer him on his pilgrimage. "I am a free man. The burden is off my shoulders, but my sword is in my hand."

GENERAL ELECTION DELAY.

LONDON, October 20.

The collapse of the Coalition does not appear to have met much regret. The papers adopt an air of resignation, and mostly regard the future optimistically. It is thought that Mr. Bonar Law will be able to form a ministry, after which he may decide to carry on the government for a while.

The Conservatives possess a clear majority in the House of Commons. Hence a general election will possibly be deferred until January or February, though it is expected immediately in some quarters.

There is reason to believe that a number of Unionists including Earl Balfour, Mr. Austen Chamberlain, Lord Birkenhead, Sir Robert Horne and Lord Lee, intend to throw in their lot with Mr. Lloyd George who is reputedly endeavouring to form a centre party. Mr. Bonar Law, after having seen the King last night had a long talk with Lord Derby; also with Sir George Younger, Colonel Grotton, the Die-Hard leader and others.

PARIS PLEASED BERLIN ANXIOUS.

LONDON, October 20.

The news of Mr. Lloyd George's downfall has been received with frank satisfaction in Paris, anxiety in Berlin, and calm detachment in Washington where the opinion is held that the change will not affect the broad lines of British policy as regards the United States.

To-day's opening rate 2/5 9/16.

HOME POLITICAL CRISIS.

BERLIN, October 20.

The papers recall Mr. Lloyd George's service to the Entente during the war but welcome his downfall owing to his past war policy. They have gratification in anticipating that French and British relations will immediately improve with the accession of a fresh leader. All the papers hope the new Cabinet will realise the necessity of intimate French and British collaboration.

BERLIN, October 20.

The Lokalan Zeiger voices the widely held view that Mr. Lloyd George's resignation means a fresh triumph for M. Poincare. The opinion is elsewhere expressed, however, that Britain, particularly in view of her unemployment problem is not likely to alter the main lines of her policy.

LLOYD GEORGE'S CHANCE.

NEW YORK, October 20.

The World expresses the opinion that things could not have happened better for Mr. Lloyd George for they enable him to enter the elections as an aggressive leader of the opposition.

The Herald thinks it extraordinary that the Government's downfall should have been produced by attacks on Mr. Lloyd George's Turkish policy. His intrepid course in restraining the Turk is overwhelming approved by American sentiment.

The Tribune refers to the impairment of Mr. Lloyd George's prestige by his "Greece and Greece-Turkish failures."

BONAR LAW'S POLICY.

LONDON, October 20.

A Conservative meeting is being arranged for the Carlton Club on October 23 to elect a leader. If Mr. Bonar Law is appointed he is expected to present a list of the Cabinet to the King with the object of carrying on the establishment of more stable conditions, but new appointments will necessitate a number of by-elections, indicating the feelings of constancy in the electorate. The keynote of his policy will be strict economy and a better understanding with the Allies.

In the meantime France has agreed to Lord Curzon's request to postpone the Near East peace conference until November 13, the venue of which is suggested at Lausanne.

PRINCE'S EASTERN TOUR.

HONGKONG MEMORIES.

IMPOSING GUILDHALL CEREMONY.

LONDON, October 20.

In spite of dull weather, the Prince of Wales was heartily cheered by crowds driving in an open carriage from York House to the Guildhall this morning to receive an address of congratulation on his Eastern tour at an imposing ceremony.

The Guildhall Library was packed with distinguished personages, including the Duke of Connaught, Indian Princes and Mr. Lloyd George, who received a great ovation, other former Ministers, and Dominion High Commissioners. The Japanese Ambassador was the only diplomat present.

BRITAIN AND JAPAN.

Replying to the address which referred to abiding Anglo-Japanese friendship, the Prince of Wales emphasised that the object of his travels was to gain by personal observation as much intimate and sympathetic knowledge of the Empire as possible. His visit to Japan had enabled him not only to renew his personal friendship with the Prince Regent but to realise the strength of the traditional ties which have happily so long existed between the two island empires.

KOWLOON GLIMPSE.

The Prince, in his speech, referred to his visit to Ceylon and Malaya, which were both suffering from the rubber slump, but said he was convinced by what he saw that when normal conditions are restored the prosperity of the rich peninsula will be reestablished. Speaking of his visit to Hongkong, he declared that it would always be a disappointment that he did not see more of China, but he went to Kowloon and got a glimpse of Chinese life there.

WELCOME IN JAPAN.

The Prince spoke warmly of his visit to Japan. He declared that he would always be grateful to Japan for the spontaneous welcome he received everywhere. This enabled him to come into contact with representatives of all classes and realise the wonderful progress the nation had made in recent years. He had many opportunities of assuring the Japanese people that the Anglo-Japanese alliance, although merged into a wider instrument, was still strong in the heart of the British nation, and he trusted it might continue to operate for the welfare of humanity generally.

OVATION FOR LLOYD GEORGE.

LONDON, October 20.

Mr. Lloyd George received a very wonderful ovation at the Guildhall when he rose and toasted the Prince of Wales. Mr. Lloyd George was visibly impressed but he overcame his nervousness and spoke for an hour. He was loudly cheered when he referred to his loyalty to the Prince as contrasted with party. He paid a tribute to the Prince's work in India in the face of climatic and other difficulties and referred to the desire of the bulk of Indians for progress on constitutional lines.

The Prince of Wales, replying, declared his confidence in the future of India as a partner in the British Commonwealth of Nations. He was encouraged in this belief by the recent freedom from unrest and disturbance. He held the opinion that India would become a great manufacturing as well as an agricultural nation.

Deep-Seated Abscess in the Hip.
Remarkable Recovery after undergoing three operations without success.

Our Portrait is of Mrs. LAMBSON, of Most's Mill, Withyham, Sussex, England, who writes:

I am writing to tell you of the benefit I have received from your Chlorodyne. I had a deep-seated abscess in my hip and leg, which had been present for some time, and was very painful. I had three operations, but no relief. I was in a hospital nine months and had three operations. Still I was no better. So I asked to come home. I had been home three weeks, and I was feeling very ill, so I thought I would try your Chlorodyne. The first bottle I took, and the next day I had more sleep, and by the time I had taken the second bottle I was feeling much better. I can now do my work and walk quite a long distance with ease. I am sure if people suffering the same as I was would give Chlorodyne a trial, they would find it would do them good. You can make whatever use you like of this letter.

CHILDREN'S DREAMS.*KEY TO RIDDLES OF EDUCATION.

At a meeting of the British Association at Hull it was suggested by Dr. O. W. Kimmins, of London, that the dreams of children should be studied, as affording a guide to the mental make-up of the child.

As an instance of what a good psychologist can accomplish he illustrated the case of a London school. As the children came up from the infants' department the headmistress tested their native ability as distinct from their educational achievement, and made use of the results to place them in appropriate classes. The change raised the school to a far higher level than it had ever reached before.

It would be interesting to hear from psychologists to what extent children's dreams could be used for school purposes. Much valuable information as to the mental make-up of the child could be obtained from his dreams. Nothing delighted a child more than to give verbal or written accounts of his dreams. Only a trained mental expert, however, could deal adequately with the interpretation of those dreams. With many dreams the amateur would come hopelessly to grief.

CASE OF THE DUNCE.

"In spite of all difficulties, however," said Dr. Kimmins, "there appear to be such possibilities in the dream as the royal road to the unconscious that its educational value should be very great."

The dunce of the class was a case for the psychologist, and in which to which the teacher could send him ought to be established.

Examples of the work of a psychologist upon children's dreams were given by Dr. E. A. Hamilton Pearson. "A small girl of 10 years with a mental age of 11 was brought to me," he explained. "The main symptoms complained of were ungovernable fits of temper, so bad that her father had given doubts of her sanity, and she was backward at school."

She had a most interesting dream which revealed her condition. She was standing in a park, and in the distance were fields with men and boys lying asleep. Suddenly a large hairy hand and forearm appeared. In the hand were two nuts, one of which she had to choose. After hesitation she took one of the nuts, opened it, and found it contained a tiny gold coin. Simultaneously she realised that the men and boys were stirring in their sleep and that her mother was standing outside the park railings.

"The symbolism of the dream is clear. The nuts are symbolical of her problem which she solves by choosing a nut and accepting the gold coin, the age-old symbol of her sex. Her problem was undoubtedly the non-acceptance of sex. She passionately wanted to be a boy."

A WARNING.

Dr. Orlin Miller, of Harley-street, London, warned teachers against starting the psycho-analysis of children unless they had a reasonable chance of carrying it to fruition. Otherwise, to start a child thinking analytically was a dangerous process. The average time for thorough psycho-analysis was five days a week for 18 months. Even then one could not change temperament or give the gift of humour to the man born without it.

Answering the rhetorical question, "What right has a doctor to interfere in education?" Dr. Miller said doctors would feel justified in interfering so long as nervous breakdowns occurred. The demand to-day was not for well-informed people but for people with well-developed characters, and intellectual development must come second to character formation.

"The teacher may pride himself on getting Smith minor through an examination to-day," he remarked. "Twenty or thirty years later Mr. Smith, suffering from nervous breakdown and insomnia, will tell his consultant: 'Yes the sister individual who came to me in my nightmares is very like a certain master I had at school who was a regular slave driver. I used to wake up thinking of my work and of him, and I think it was then that fear first entered into my life.'"

When I come across cases like that in my consulting room I feel how small is my opportunity in trying to straighten out this warped life compared with the opportunity of the teacher who might have made the boy into a man and made him into a neurotic."

THE DOCTOR'S SECRET.*SHOULD HE HAVE TOLD THE HUSBAND?

"To tell these things indiscriminately will tend to destroy the confidence between your patient and yourself."

Dr. Stephen made this statement to a relative at the request at Southend on Mrs. Eleanor Lawrence when he was asked why he did not inform the husband of his wife's previous attempt at suicide.

Mrs. Lawrence was found dead at her home in Ramus-drive, Westcliffe, by her husband on his return from Margate. The room was full of gas. The doctor stated that the woman went to him in June and said she had "been a naughty girl." She appeared as if she had had gas, and she admitted she had. He thought it was sufficient to talk to her in a fatherly way, for he judged she would never make the attempt again.

An uncle of Mrs. Lawrence, Walter Rach, a Leyton builder, expressed the opinion that the doctor should have told Mr. Lawrence of what had happened in June, or that he might have taken steps to prevent his wife, destroying herself.

Mr. Lawrence, however, said he was satisfied.

The verdict on Mrs. Lawrence, whose mother, it transpired, also committed suicide, was "suicide during temporary insanity."

EVERYBODY HAPPY—BUT YOU?

If that's how you feel your trouble most likely is constipation or disordered liver, and the remedy you need is Pinkettes, the dainty little laxatives which neither gripe nor purge. Pinkettes restore brightness to life by gently stimulating digestion, dispelling constipation and regulating the liver, thus banishing the cause of sick headache, biliousness, irritability and gloom. Try Pinkettes to-night; you'll feel better to-morrow. Of chemists, or at 20 cents the box, post free from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., W. B. Brien Road, Shanghai.

COMING TO HONGKONG.

NEW ENGLISH FARCIOL
COMEDY COMPANY.

The announcement of the arrival of the New English Farciol Comedy Company under the direction of Bandman's Eastern Circuit Ltd., to play a short season at the Theatre Royal should create a considerable stir of interest amongst those who appreciate first rate theatrical entertainments. This announcement has far greater significance than the mere arrival of a new company of first rate actors and actresses—interesting as that event usually is—it is actually the opening of what is intended to be, a new era of theatrical entertainment in the Far East; it inaugurates a series of theatrical engagements that will place the Far East theatrically on a par with other metropolitan centres throughout the British Empire. It is the first step of a policy that should provide audiences throughout the Far East with really satisfactory entertainments.

Negotiations have been successfully conducted for some months past and the arrival of the New English Comedy Company is the fruit of the new progressive policy under the direction of Bandman's Eastern Circuit Ltd. The company has been carefully selected and organized in London, and laughter being the keynote, the artists have been chosen with a special view to their experience and ability in farciol comedy, which, it should be explained, is a highly specialized branch of theatrical art. The company has been furnished with a valuable and attractive repertoire of up-to-date London Comedy Successes and the rehearsals have been under expert supervision in London, the authors and original producers of the plays in the repertoire having given the full value of their experience and personal assistance. For instance the rehearsals for "Tons of Money", with which the company open on Friday, October 27th have been supervised by the great little comedian Mr. Leslie Henson himself, who expressed his entire satisfaction with the company and its work. Rehearsals of the expensive London scenery have been built in full detail and the complete plans and photographs received of the furnishing and mountings will ensure that the plays and settings will be true models of London productions.

"Tons of Money" is the greatest laughing success London has seen for twenty years and is still drawing capacity houses to the Shaftesbury Theatre at every performance. The advance booking is colossal and it bids fair to out-do its only rival "Charley's Aunt" for popularity and length of run. Nature, too, soon after its brilliant production in the metropolis, the arrangement between Bandman's Eastern Circuit Ltd. and Leslie Henson and Tom Wall Ltd., for production here is a costly venture, but there is every reason to hope that the enterprise will be successful.

In addition to "Tons of Money" the company will play during their season here "French Leave", "The Young Person in Pink", "Other People's Worries", "A Week End", (which ran for 100 performances at the Kingsway Theatre), "Tilly of Bloomsbury" (the successful comedy by Ian Hay), "Daddy Long Legs", "Her Husband's Wife" (from the Globe Theatre) and "Charley's Aunt", all of which are too well known to need recommendation to Hongkong theatre-goers. The New English Farciol Comedy Company have broken all records in Calcutta and Rangoon and are doing likewise at present in Singapore. Booking opens at Mouties Ltd on Tuesday next, October 24.

GAMBLER'S LUCK.

BIG WINNINGS STOLEN THE SAME NIGHT.

Chung Ching, a professional gambler, living in Aberdeen village, had extraordinary luck last night, and when he left the table at midnight, he had $965 in winnings in his pocket. Two men whose acquaintance he had made at the school, left the place with Chung, and under the pretext that they lived in Chung's neighbourhood, walked with him along the Main Street. When they reached a lonely spot on the road, near the Paper Mills, Chung's companions set about him. They were joined by a third man who had been waiting in the gloom on the side of the road. Chung put up a stiff fight, but the big odds told and he was soon overpowered. His assailants stole his girdle, in the pocket of which he had kept his winnings.

CHILDREN'S CORNER.

My dear Children,

It is a long time since any of you have sent me any stories or poems that you have written or any riddles that you have made up. I should like to see some more of them and any that are sent will be printed in our Corner.

Your loving
PETER PAN.

SNIP AND SNOOP AND THE BEAST.

Mary had been asked by some friends to take part in a fairy play which they were getting up for Christmas. She had not done any acting before but her mother thought that she would be able to manage it and Mary herself thought that it would be great fun.

The play was "Beauty and the Beast" and Mary was to take the part of Beauty.

It took her some time to learn her part and she spent much of her time rehearsing. Snip and Snoop were always left at home on these occasions because Mary had only to go to the house of a friend near by and she thought that the dogs would be happier playing at home.

"I wonder why Mary goes out so much now," Snip said to Snoop.

"Yes and it is rather dull too when she is at home," Snoop replied. "Half the time she sits reading or musing something aloud. She does not seem to have much time to notice us these days."

"Never mind," Snip said consolingly. "It must be something to do with Christmas and that will soon be over and then perhaps she will take us for long walks again and not be so busy all the time."

This conversation took place two weeks before Christmas, just three days before the play was to be acted.

When the great day came Mary was of course busier than usual. She shut herself up in her bedroom for a long time and when she came down the dogs did not know what to make of her.

"What a queer hat," remarked Snoop, gazing open mouthed at the shining golden crown which she wore.

"Yes and look at her dress," put in his brother. It is all dragging on the ground but she does not seem to mind!

Mary had them growling together and she gave them each a pat and said "Now dogs be good while I am at the play and I shall be back in time to give you your supper."

"Did you hear that?" whispered Snip as Mary went out and shut the front door behind her. "She said 'play' and if there is any playing to be done I don't see why we should not be in it. Come along. We will follow her."

Snip was only too ready to go after his brother so they crept out through the back door, then raced along the road and were just in time to see Mary disappearing into her friend's house. It was easy enough to get in there too by a side door and they found their way to the big lounge hall.

"Why whatever is happening?" said the astonished Snip. For there were a number of people sitting there in front of a curtain which was drawn across the hall and all the place was lighted up with tiny electric lights.

Mary was nowhere to be seen and no one noticed the two dogs peeping in through a door leading into the dining room. In a minute or two the curtain was drawn back and Mary appeared followed by a man dressed as a King and they had a long talk together.

SMUGGLED BABY.

DIPHTHERIA-BANGER IN CROWDED TRAIN.

For having taken a baby suffering from diphtheria from Ramsgate to London in a crowded train on August 29 Mrs. M. Chapman, of Hamilton street, Deptford, S.E., was at Rains gate fined the full penalty of £5.

Mrs. Chapman, who had been spending a holiday at Ramsgate, was told by a doctor that her baby had diphtheria and must be removed to the local isolation hospital, but when the ambulance arrived to take the baby there it was discovered Mrs. Chapman had returned with it to London.

EX-OFFICER'S SUICIDE.

WANTED TO BE PUT IN A SACK TO SAVE THE RATES.

"I am fed up and pining out. I am perfectly sane, and I have carried the poison about with me for over two months ready for use. Pack me up in a sack and save the rates."

These passages occurred in a letter addressed to the coroner by ex-Lieutenant F. Buckran, of High Wycombe, who poisoned himself at Maidenhead by taking cyanide of potassium. Suicide during temporary insanity was the verdict.

Buckran was depressed owing to lack of employment and his inability to meet a financial obligation.

was drawn once more. "But whatever is this?"

For a fierce monster came bounding on, dressed in yellow and black with a strange looking mask and a long waving tail.

"He is going to bite Mary," barked Snip as the creature advanced towards her and without a moment's hesitation the dogs rushed forward and began dancing round the monster, snapping at his legs and growling fiercely.

"Go away Snip and Snoop!" cried Mary, driving them in front of her and everyone was laughing as if it were a great joke. The dogs were so amazed that they allowed themselves to be chased right out of the house without protesting. Once outside they sat down and Snip remarked to Snoop with an astonished air, "Well of all the extraordinary things! Mary did not mind that dreadful creature rushing at her and sent us away when we were going to help her."

"I don't understand this kind of play," Snip said. "Let's go home." So home they went, feeling rather injured. But when Mary came back she patted them and explained that it was only a kind of game and that the Beast was not going to hurt her really.

Besides which "she added," it was only Billy Thomas who was dressed up. I know you meant to help me and it was very nice of you, dear things."

And she fetched a biscuit each for them and they were soon quite happy again.

PETER PAN.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Elsa Batalha. I was glad that you liked the story about dancing and I think that both you and your sister type very nicely.

Edna Batalha. The Snip and Snoop stories have always been your favourites, haven't they. I have written another one for you this week and hope that you will like it.

Maudie White (!) Your letter was only signed Maudie, but I think that it is Maudie White, is it not? I am afraid that your letter must have got lost because I have never received it. Did you have all the hidden cameras right? I expect that you read the list in the paper and shall be glad if you will let me know. I am so sorry about it and we must see if we can put it right.

How many cows' tails would it take to reach the moon? One, if it was long enough.

"A GREAT PREMIER."

AN IMPRESSION OF MR. LLOYD GEORGE.

Sir Philip Gibbs, the well-known war correspondent, writes of Mr. Lloyd George who has just resigned his post as Premier the following personal appreciation:—

"Mr. Lloyd George," says Sir Philip, "will take his place in history as the most remarkable Prime Minister of England since the time of the elder Pitt. It is possible, also, that he will take his place in history as the man who, by surrendering his ideals at the time when the world was crying out for spiritual leadership, helped Europe to fall into moral degradation and material ruin. Yet time and time again during his three years of history his old instincts of idealism have revealed themselves momentarily."

"It is hard for English people to speak or to write about Lloyd George without passion—passion of dislike or passion of hero worship. There have been times when most have hated him, but it is significant that the people who hated him once because of the things for which I and others liked him this democratic audacity, his amusing vulgarity of challenge to the anachronism of England are now those who like him most. I hated him for his speech about the 'Knock out blow' at a time when there seemed no ending to war except by the extermination of the world's youth. I hated him afterwards for helping to arrange a peace which seemed to me to guarantee the certainty of new and more dreadful war."

ADMIRATION AND REBUTT.

"Yet, analysing my own feelings, I find, as so many of his political opponents find, that not hatred, but admiration strangely mingled with regret, affection tinged by anger and annoyance, amusement causing laughter with a groan in it, are my dominant impressions of this amazing little man. The straight principles of honourable men are warped under his influence. They weaken. I have seen them, visibly, under the spell of his baby-blue eyes. Men go into his room cursing him in their hearts, determined to resist his blandishments, resolutely fixed to arguments and facts and convictions from which they will not budge. In less than an hour with him they have resisted nothing, have hugged from all their fixed joints, and come out looking sheepish, smiling, weakly saying 'Marvellous! Time and time again that has happened to trade-union leaders, political critics, newspaper editors, ministers of state, generals.'"

"Many people have had the honour of taking breakfast with Mr. Lloyd George at No. 10, Downing-street—(Come into my parlour, said the spider to the fly). It is a most dangerous hour to those who wish to preserve a detached judgment. When I had the honour, once, of being invited to this meal, I was very watchful of the little great man and his menage, trying to get some insight into the secret quality of his genius. There was no ceremony to impress the stranger, but a homeliness and candour far more impressive. Mr. Lloyd George helped his guests to toast. Mrs. Lloyd George—a nice homely woman—poured out the morning coffee. Miss Megan came down in a hurry, said, 'Good morning dad!' and attacked her bacon and eggs with the joyous appetite of youth."

"How are things going in France?" asked Mrs. Lloyd George, with a motherly sigh for all poor boys.

"GET ON WITH YOUR BREAKFAST," "Yes," said the Prime Minister. "Dreadful mess, that last battle, wasn't it? Haven't heard a word about it from G. H. Q. First I heard was when I read your articles." (Subtle flattery and pleasing to a war correspondent.)

"He asked straight questions, listened (unlike most great men) to the answers, uttered no criticism of high persons, chaffed Miss Megan, passed his cup for some more coffee, growled over the horror of war with honest emotion, laughed heartily over a comic tale of the trenches, discovered a point of fact he wanted to know—(the reason for the invitation to breakfast)—and indulged in a bright, uncomplimentary monologue about generals, war offices, and newspaper editors, until checked by Mrs. Lloyd George, who said 'Get on with your breakfast, dear.'"

"That candour of his blue eyes, that frankness of speech, that readiness to alter his own opinion in view of a new fact—were they just a camouflage of deep cunning, artfulness developed into a natural habit? I do not think so. There is in the soul of Lloyd George a certain simplicity, a boyishness, natural and unfeigned."

"At Walton Heath, where he played golf to keep him fit during the strain of war, he used to walk round a friend's garden with a friend's daughter—a bit of a schoolgirl, and talk to her in a comradely way, telling her funny things that happened in cabinet meetings, ridiculing the whimsical characteristics of ministers of state, chatting about State secrets as though they were the gossip of the village green.

"With a felt hat thrust sideways on his shaggy locks, an old suit amazingly baggy at the knees, and a gaunt stick like a country squire, he used to stroll into this house, as I have seen him, and discuss the situation breezily with a much closer realisation of the stark realities than those whom optimism blinded to truth—yet never with any sign of weariness or despair."

HIS EAR TO THE GROUND.

"Always he has his ear to the ground, listening to the distant tramp of feet. Whenever it comes too near he gives ground, 'according to plan,' and then with superb audacity and a sure touch attacks his enemy in an unexpected place. He retreats with the greatest grace in the world, yielding to the inevitable with a beauty, as a generous gift."

"In debate his success is largely due to that. He grants so much of his opponents' argument that they are stupefied by his candour and disarmed by his chivalry. As a rule, he states their side of the case with more persuasive oratory than they could dream of doing. He goes farther than they would dare. It is what he calls 'taking the wind out of the enemy's sails.' Then he breaks through their line of battle with 'the Nelson touch' and destroys their last resistance with his broadsides."

"This is what he most enjoys. It makes him feel young and fresh. His baby-blue eyes glow with the light of battle. It appeals to that keen sense of humour which is a large part of his power and a cause of his weakness—a doubled-edged weapon. For it is his sense of humour which enables him to preserve his mental poise after years of intense strain bearing down upon him from all the quarters. Anxiety, dangers, attacks from front and rear, leave him strangely untroubled because he has the gift of laughter, sees great fun in it all, a merry adventure."

"The pomposities of great gentlemen like Lord Curzon, the precocities of Mr. Balfour, the conceits of Winston Churchill, afford him real amusement, and when his weary of Cabinet discussions, tired with high people, overstrained by the necessity of posing as the new Napoleon, he retires gladly to a little circle of low class friends, and feels refreshed by their vulgarities, their lack of high morality, their cynical knowledge of life and of him. He can take his ease among them with nothing to conceal, nothing to pretend. He knows their human frailties. They know his. They have been well rewarded by him, and hope for more. He likes their loyalty, their rich jests, their memories of old times when together they heard the chiming at midnight."

FRENCH JOURNALIST'S APPRECIATION.

"Pertinax," the brilliant Parisian journalist, had an interesting appreciation of the Prime Minister in the Sunday Express.

"As a man, the British Premier may be relied upon to attract and delight nine Frenchmen out of ten," he says. "They will even say that they find him more Gallic than themselves."

"But as a statesman, he may be relied upon in the long run, to shock them, to reduce them to despair, and to make them articulate the following complaint—which I have heard so often: 'After all we should prefer to have to deal with the traditional British bulldog.'"

"Why? Because they consider that he sins continuously against the sense of logical continuity, against the passion for rationalism so deeply ingrained in everything French."

A KIND OF STABILITY.

"Mr. Lloyd George, after all, does not vary so frequently as we French people are prone to think. He has a kind of stability which escapes our notice because it is very far from our mind. He is at heart a Nonconformist, a prophet in the sense of the Bible; a constant innovator. His mind goes forward from visions to visions, and does not move by logical steps. He jumps, he does not walk."

"You cannot ask Prophet Jeremiah the write or speak in the same strain as Desportes. That does not mean that Prophet Jeremiah, in his way, is not a very consistent man, or that he does not manage his own affairs very well."

"Between Mr. Lloyd George and ourselves, all the trouble arises from the fact that, while striving after the inception of an international state of affairs more satisfactory than the old one, absolutely refuse to take for granted what does not really exist. For instance, the existence of a democratic Germany, freed from the Prussian tradition of conquest, or the falling off of national egotisms."

"More than that. Looking back to past history, we observe that, notwithstanding superficial changes, relations between States do not alter;

SPORT.

LEAGUE FOOTBALL.

TO DAY'S MATCHES.

Four matches in the first division of the Hongkong Football League are down for decision this afternoon. They are as follows:—

Kowloon v. South China.—Railway ground, Kowloon. Referee: Mr. G. H. Perryman.

R.C.A. v. Hongkong.—Sookumpoo ground. Referee: Mr. W. E. Hollands.

H.M.S. "Tamar" v. H.M.S. "Ambrose."—Navy "A" ground. Referee: Mr. F. Williams.

Hongkong Police v. King's Regt.—South China ground. Referee: Mr. F. Smith.

All the teams are well matched, and the games should provide a lot of excitement.

Kick off at 4.30 p.m., sharp.

Next Saturday will see the opening of the season in the second division of the league when with the return of the Fleet from the North, some good matches should be witnessed.

INTERPORT POLO.

TO DAY'S MATCHES.

The Manila interport polo team which defeated the Services "A" team in such convincing manner on Monday last, and afterwards went down to the Hongkong interport team on Wednesday to the tune of 5 goals to two, will complete their engagement here this afternoon when they will play a local civilian team at 4 p.m.

The visitors will not be at their full strength as Mr. McPherson is still down with fever, but they will field the same team which figured in the big game last Wednesday, and a good game is assured. It was at first intended to field an entirely new team to represent Hongkong in this match, but owing to fears of possible weakness which would make the match uninteresting, Mr. Boyd has been included.

The teams will line up this afternoon as follows:—
Manila: Mr. Nelson, Captain Ball, Major Howell and Mr. C. P. White (Captain).
Hongkong: Mr. P. A. Cox, Mr. J. G. Lyon, Mr. W. D. Fiddes Wilson and Mr. C. C. Boyd (Captain).

AIRMEN'S GOOD-BYE.

SCRIBBLED IN BLAZING PLANE.

An aeroplane on the Bremen Berlin service fell in flames between Stendal and Schwerin. The crew was killed. The Lokal Anzeiger relates that the airman hastily scribbled a few words of farewell to his friends in his pocket-book, and flung it with his identity papers out of the burning machine.

even in the course of many centuries, as appreciably as it is too often supposed. We turn to the first book of Thucydides, and we read there a speech of the Corinthian ambassadors to the Spartans which M. Poincaré could have uttered, this very week in one of his meetings with Mr. Lloyd George. We find there cities wrangling about international arbitration, etc. In the 'fifties and 'sixties we had only too much to do with political Messianism, and we had to pay the price of our mistakes in two terrible wars. Henceforward, we must be careful.

FRENCH NATIONALISM V. FREE CHURCHES.

"Shall we call it the case of French nationalism versus the Free Churches? We would not fight that case. We only say this, realising what the Free Churches mean in English history and in the British world. We do not want to appoint Prophet Jeremiah to the Quai d'Orsay, because, owing to our falling population and to our difficult position at the very door of Germanic Central Europe, there is no margin left to us where we can initiate doubtful experiments in politics, and where we can waste. England enjoys a wider margin than ours, and America a still wider margin."

"Endowed as he is with extraordinary gifts of perception, Mr. Lloyd George can be expected to discover for good, as he did during the war, the true foundation of French positivism in international politics. Meanwhile, I express the wish that, in the management of Continental affairs, France be credited with greater trust and confidence. Please keep in mind that French imperialism does not exist because it is ultra vires, if not for other reasons."

"Then the Entente Cordiale will be unassailable. M. Poincaré will entertain his British colleague in his Samtigny country house each summer, and, at the invitation of the latter, he will become a regular and highly appreciated preacher in the Baptist chapels on the Welsh hills."
